

REFUGEES FROM DISEASE RIDDEN
RUSSIA ARRIVE

People In Terrible Condition Reports Now
Declare
EXPECT 1,500,000
Two Thousand Daily Are
Arriving In Districts Of White Russia.

London, Aug. 8.—A million and a half of famished disease-ridden Russian refugees are pouring into the Pinsk and Brest-Litovsk districts of White Russia, near the Polish frontier, according to F. L.
Thompson, an American relief worker who arrived here today.
The Russian fugitives are arriving at the rate of 2,000 daily. They are in a terrible condition especially the children.

The British Foreign Office has sent an agent into Russia to investigate the famine and cholera condition. Although he was supposed to have arrived at Moscow, July 10, nothing has been heard from him.
Belief was expressed that his reports may have been held up by the Soviets, who are censoring outgoing messages in an effort to minimize the famine condition.

Government officials were amazed today at the report that Lenin would come to Great Britain. They said they did not believe and characterized it as "incredible."
Up to this afternoon no word had been received from Riga that the released American prisoners had arrived there from Russia. It was expected that Kamanoff, Soviet envoy to London, would flash word to London as soon as the Americans reached that city. Walter Brown director of American relief in Europe who left London yesterday, is not due to reach Riga until Wednesday.
He may find the Americans waiting for him.

The American relief worker
Thompson painted a horrible picture of conditions in Russia.

"When I left Brest and Pinsk districts the fugitives were arriving in a steady stream," he said.
"They were gaunt and famished.
Many were virtually insane from hunger and constant misery that they saw about them. They were coming in at the rate of 2,000 daily and more than 1,500,000 were expected in all. There are no crops and few houses so the refugees have to live in dug-outs. The children's bodies are bloated from hunger and disease. For months they have been living upon grass and a soup made of roots. The bread supply in Petrograd was nearly exhausted a for-night ago and could not be bought.
It could only be secured through exchange. I say things that are unbelievable. Women too weak to walk, crawled to me begging for a crust of bread."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY
ENACTED SUNDAY
AFTER ELECTION

Principals In Political Argument Mortally Wound
Each Other.

Whiteburg, Kentucky, August 8.— Trouble coming from opposition in Saturday's primary election caused a double tragedy at Neon, this county, Sunday afternoon. Sam J. Wright, policeman, met Alvin Bentley, resident of Neon, on the street. A few words were exchanged about opposing candidates who had gone down in defeat, and, according to eye-witnesses, several shots were exchanged. Both men drew revolvers and opened fire.
Several shots were exchanged. Both men fell mortally wounded, shot several times. Both soon died.
Wright, who is a brother of John W. Wright, was about 70 years old.
He was one of the best known men in that section during old feud days.
He is said to have taken part in a number of battles. He has several grown children and a wife. Bentley was about 40 and leaves a wife and three children. Reports from Neon indicate further trouble as members of the Wright and Bentley families are said to be arming.

ELECTRICAL STORM
CREATES HAVOC

New York, August 8.—With two known dead as the result of the heavy electrical and rain-storm which struck this city and environs late yesterday, it was believed today the death list would be increased when full reports were received from the beaches and outlying districts.
Lightning killed a 15 year old caddy at Wauquah Park in Newark, New Jersey, and Neale
Shahan at Keansburg. Miss Lena Blank was hit by bolt of lightning while bathing at Coney Island is expected to die. Another young woman was driven insane by a lightning flash.

GIANT U. S. AIRSHIP STARTS TRIP AUGUST 25

HARDING'S PLAN TO AID RAILS
IS ACTED UPON
Bill For Senate Will Be Made Ready Soon, Is Word.

Washington, August 8.—President Harding's plan for rejuvenating the railroads by extending the carriers' indebtedness to the government over a period of ten years so the steam lines may use what cash they have to make certain repairs and improvements and to pay their current bills will be taken up tomorrow by the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission which proposes to have a bill ready for the Senate within a short time.

The two measures designed to carry out the proposals of the administration have been introduced in Congress and it is from these that the committees of both houses will construct the bill which they hope to pass. The first bill to be introduced following the President's message setting forth the country's needs was by Representative Winslow, Republican, Massachusetts, and a bill with identical measures has been offered in the Senate by Townsend, Republican, Mich., who is acting as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission during the absence of Senator Cummins.

Senator Cummins is expected to return in time to take charge of the railroad legislation when the committee tackles it.

In view of the seriousness of the railroad situation and President Harding's expressed belief that all business will be stimulated by the complete financial recovery of the transportation industry, the committee is likely to act speedily on the Townsend bill with the purpose of jamming it through the Senate as a party measure.

WORKERS ARE NOW
ON NEW PAY BASIS
IN COLUMBUS SHOP

Wages Of Some Will Be Reduced and Others
Increased.

Columbus, August 8.—Effective today, workers in the Pan Handle shops here on a new pay basis. While wages of many of the shopmen will be reduced, it is said, the pay of others will be increased. The new rules and regulations, promulgated by the railroad's management, provide that employees will be paid either on the hourly basis or on the "payment-by-results" system (piece work)
or both.

Pay for the first two hours of overtime will be computed on the base rate while all over-time beyond two hours work will be paid for at the rate of time and a half. Heretofore all over-time beyond the regular eight hour day was paid for at the rate of time and a half.

A conference of the federal crafts employed at the shops today is expected to determine whether the workers will agree to the change or accept it under protest pending appeal to the federal rail labor board.

RENEWAL OF STRIFE
IN IRELAND AVERTED

London, August 8.—Threatened break-off in the Irish peace negotiations and the renewal of war-fare in Ireland was averted today by Premier Lloyd George. The Premier sent orders from Paris to release immediately John MacKeown, of the Irish Republican army, and a member of the Dail Eireann. When the British announced they would release the imprisoned members of Dail Eireann, MacKeown was the only exception. The British authorities maintained he should not be liberated because of the serious charge of murder that had been lodged against him.

WORLD PEACE HINGES ON MEETING
OF SUPREME COUNCIL IN PARIS

Arms Conference Brings Up
New Dry Law Question

Shall Foreign Representatives Be Deprived of Their Drinks or Shall Volstead Law Be More Freely
Interpreted, is Question Now Up

Washington, August 8.—That part of official Washington which is constitutionally opposed to the policies of Mr. Volstead, is awaiting with eager interest a decision on the momentous question of whether the disarmament conference which convenes here in November is to be wet or dry. Those who agree with Mr.
Volstead are also interested and are expected to have considerable to say if the decision goes against them.

That the problem involves some nice considerations is disputed by no one. On the one hand, it involves the majesty and dignity of the domestic law, as constituted by the 18th amendment and the Volstead act; on the other, it brings into play delicate question of diplomatic usage and international courtesy deemed essential to the success of the conference.

More than a thousand foreigners,
varying in rank from Prime Minister to messenger are expected to come to Washington in connection with the conference. The British delegation it is estimated will number not less than 200, while those of France, Italy, Japan and China probably will fall little short of that figure. Belgium, the Netherlands and Portugal also will be represented. In addition, observers are expected from practically every nation in the world. Of all the countries to be represented the United States is the only one with prohibition and the question already has arisen whether these guests must while in Washington, do as the Washingtonians do.

Aside from the more radical opponents of John Barleycorn there is an element that feels that it would be unfortunate if existing laws were interpreted more freely in order that the visiting delegations may not be deprived of their drinks. The moral effect upon the country of a thousand foreigners having free access to alcoholic beverages within the very shadow of the capitol, it is argued undoubtedly would be bad.

Such a spectacle they say would be a disgrace.

Juanita Pettey used to say to her school mates. After graduating she went to California to visit relatives. Today her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter W. Pettey received a letter from her. She sailed from San Francisco August third on a three-months' honeymoon through China
Japan and India. Her husband is E.
A. Dye of New York City.

Only a partial list of the victims of the disaster is available. Among the known victims were: Thomas Johnston, of Brooklyn; E. Picknell of Hubbard, Oregon; A. N. Hutchinson, Portland, Oregon; S. Kumazawa, a steamer passenger and the following members of the crew: Chief Steward Heane, Steward F. King, Frank Comm, Ralph J. Mockett and engine-hand named Larsen.

Twelve bodies had been recovered early today and 36 persons were reported missing.

"Gentleman" MacKeown
Will Aid Irish Cause

Dublin, August 8.—The idol of the Irish Republican army, John MacKeown, whose immediate release from jail was refused by the British causing a near split in the Irish-British peace negotiations will sit with his fellow members of Dail Eireann in the Sinn Fein parliament when it meets August 16. His release from prison was ordered by Lloyd George.

Sinn Fein leaders declared that MacKeown's presence is necessary
as he is "one of the best and bravest fighters in the Republican army and his services in the field entitle him to be heard in the halls of debate."

Not even the exploits of Michael Collins, the so-called commander-in-chief of the Irish Republican army, equal those of MacKeown. He was noted for his "clean fighting" and among the black and tan police men the Irish fighter was known as
"gentleman" MacKeown.

Many black and tan policemen whom MacKeown had saved from death in battle returned after their wounds had healed to shake their saviour by the hand. MacKeown was a member of the "Republican Flying Squadron." Before the armistice his mother and sisters had been taken by the British military authorities as hostages.

The Sinn Feiners were deeply excited when the British made an exception of Mac Keown because Eamonn de Valera had been given assurance that his request for the release of all imprisoned members of Dail Eireann would be met by the British government. The Sinn Feiners renewed their demands for the release of Mac Keown and the Irish office communicated with Lloyd George who is in Paris. The Premier intervened and ordered the temporary release of Mac Keown to enable him to attend the meeting of the Sinn Fein parliament on August 16
and take part in informal Sinn Fein discussions previous to that date.

Some of the government officials were displeased at the Premier's action but others held that his intervention has saved the peace negotiations and prevented a collapse of the truce.

According to advices from Dublin
the officials of Dublin Castle have already begun to release the Sinn Fein parliamentarians.

CHARGE OF MURDER
WILL BE PLACED
AGAINST SUSPECT
Tragic Death of J. Belton Kennedy Takes New Turn.
Los Angeles, August 8.—New and startling disclosures that have added fresh elements of mystery to the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, wealthy insurance man, was made today by Arthur Courtney Burch, son of Rev. William A. Burch, of Evansville, Ill., according to deputy sheriff Joe Nolan. Nolan questioned Burch upon his arrival here from Las Vegas, Nevada, where he was taken from a Chicago-bound train Sunday.
Among the high lights of Burch's disclosures, according to Nolan are:
He came to Los Angeles two weeks ago from his home in Evanston after receiving an urgent telegram from Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain.
He admitted that Mrs. Obenchain several times had visited his room in a downtown hotel directly across from the building in which Ken-neddy had his office.
He denied any improper relations ever had existed between himself and Mrs. Obenchain but told Nolan that he had taken several long rides with her in automobiles
that he hired under the name of M.
C. Obenchain.
He said he knew nothing of Ken-neddy's death other than accounts
he had read in the newspapers.
He admitted mailing $35 in currency to Mrs. Obenchain, Saturday morning, the money by special delivery to the county jail.
He told Nolan that the package
he had been seen carrying from his hotel the night of the Kennedy murder was only a bundle of old newspapers which he had thrown in a vacant lot in the Wilshire district.
Throughout the interview with Nolan, sheriff Sam Giv of Clark county, Nevada, and chief of police McCarthy, Burch insistently denied he knew nothing of Kennedy's murder. Burch had more than $100 in cash and a large number of blank checks on a Chicago bank when arrested.
Los Angeles, August 8.—A new and mysterious angle is uppermost in the tragic death of J. Belton Ken-neddy, wealthy young insurance broker, today with the arrest at Las Vegas, Nevada, of Arthur Courtney
Burch, son of Reverend William A.
Burch, a retired minister of Evanston, Illinois. Burch was to be brought here from Las Vegas today to face a charge of murder. Burch was taken from a Chicago-bound train at Las Vegas. He took his arrest coolly, declaring:
"I had nothing to do with Ken-neddy's murder, it is all a mistake."
Burch wired his father in Evanston
"not to worry" and that everything would be satisfactorily explained.
Police today were reticent when asked regarding the evidence against Burch but were making preparations to put him through a severe grilling immediately upon his arrival. It was possible that Burch would be confronted with Mrs. Madalynne Connor Obenchain, admitted sweetheart of Kennedy who was with him at the time he was shot from ambush on the grounds of his summer home in Beverly Canyon. Mrs. Obenchain
still is being held as material witness.
YOUTHS DROWN AS
CANOE OVERTURNS
North Tonawanda, N. Y., August
8.—A young man about 22 years old who signed himself as "M. W.
Alfred, Number 11 Hubbard St., in Ashburn, Ohio," and another man about the same age, well dressed,
are believed to have been drowned
when a canoe in which they were paddling upset in the Niagara river late yesterday.
Paris, August 8.—With Great Britain and France at logger heads, the inter-allied supreme council met here today to settle the Upper Silesian issue. It was expected the allied statesmen would discuss the advantages of removing the Rhineland penalties, the Turco-Greek war in the near east, the fighting between the Albanians and the Serbians, the Russian famine and plague, source America entered the conference,
George Harvey, American ambassador of England, taking his seat at the council table as observer. There are different views between Great Britain and France on practically all the questions on the agenda. France wants to send reinforcements to Upper Silesia at once. Great Britain holds that this is not necessary.
Great Britain wants to invoke the Rhineland penalties and withdraw troops. France is opposed.
France supports the Turkish nationalists. Great Britain supports the Greeks. Although the first formal meeting was not scheduled to open until 3 o'clock, the allied statesmen conferred among themselves during the morning and the Silesian experts were in session but failed to reach an unanimous decision. Two reports were drafted for submission to the supreme council.
The meeting will last throughout the week, but Premier Lloyd George,
of England is anxious to wind up the most important business and then hold a second meeting in a few weeks to complete the details and take up secondary matters.
The sessions are held in the great clock room where the peace conference sat.
Premier Briand presides under the great clock where Clemenceau held away while the treaty of Versailles was being debated. The French Premier first presented Ambassador Harvey and then new Italian representatives to his colleagues. The introduction of the American ambassador was only a formality as he had become acquainted in London with Premier Lloyd George and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese ambassador to Great Britain and the Japanese delegates on the council.
Signor Bonomi, the new Italian Premier and the new Italian representative on the supreme council arrived barely in time for the initial session. The first actual business on the agenda of the day was the presentation of the agenda agreed upon by Premier Lloyd George and Premier Briand. The final details had been discussed between the two on Sunday night. They then discussed the question of sending allied reinforcements to Upper Silesia. This issue promises to bring about some stormy discussions with the Italians and the British standing together against the French.
The French are certain that they will win and the prediction was made that the supreme council will have approved the sending of more troops within 24 hours and that French soldiers will be crossing Germany toward Upper Silesia before midnight tomorrow night.
Germany has already promised to permit the transport of British,
French and Italian troops over German soil if the request is made by the council.
France is holding a division in readiness in the Rhineland. They were troops that were sent to the Rhineland last Spring when it appeared certain that the French would occupy the Ruhr district. It is understood that the United States prefers the Anglo-Italian solution of the Upper Silesian question in preference to that advocated by France. In this respect, it was significant that Ambassador Harvey was Premier Lloyd George's first visitor after the latter arrived from London. The two were expected about 30 minutes. Mr. Harvey refused to make any statement to the press, and it is understood that he is under instructions from Washington to make no comment whatsoever unless advised to do so.

EVANGELISM FACES FUTURE OF HOPE; CONFERENCE OPENS

The Xenia Bible Conference got a good start Sunday with afternoon and night sessions.

Dr. Charles L. Goodell, of New York City, was the big drawing card for the first day. That evangelism is facing a future of great hope was the speaker's deduction. There is no new sin that has been invented in a thousand years. Every form of sin that flourishes today was known in the day of our Lord.

"The cry of a decline in spiritual power is as old as the church and then some," the speaker said. Each age looks back to a former one and certain people find comparisons that reflect glory on a departed generation. However the church is the greatest organization ever created and stands firm with Christ's commission.

"If it were not for the churches of Xenia you could not give away corner lots in this city. Values are added in every line because of the presence and work of the churches. The old hopes of the world are dead and the need of the hour is spiritual life. It is this the churches are eager to supply to a restless age," Dr. Goodell declared.

Dr. Robert Russell spoke at the vesper hour and will speak each afternoon at 3 o'clock as well as Monday night at 8:30 p. m. The 7:30 hour, Monday evening, will be carried by the Rev. E. F. Kimmelschue, who formerly resided in Xenia and is favorably known to local people.

At 2 p. m. each day Mrs. J. P. White will conduct a Children's story hour and at the same time Mrs. Jno. Ferguson will have charge of the Mission Study class. The 4 o'clock period is devoted to Rev. W. W. McCall of Buffalo, N. Y., on Bible School work. The sessions are all being held this year in the First M. E. Church.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

WHY ANY LIMIT?

It is a good thing that when we look out into the air our eyes are unable to mark out limits to our vision.

There are limits, of course, but the wise Creator chose to melt them into the beauty of the All so that nothing might be reflected back to the brain to discourage it in its aspirations.

The creative mind never knows where to stop. If it did, its life would begin to crumble.

Alexander bemoaned the fact that after he had conquered a few small territories, that there were no new worlds to conquer. But history now smiles at his short vision. He mistook the shadow of his achievements, for the surface of a world he knew nothing of.

The man who attracts us most is he whose limitations are unmeasurable—who says in his heart that as for him there shall be no limitation to anything that he may think or do.

We pass that one by whose boundaries have been set and staked. It is well that after we have failed a hundred or a thousand times, we may yet fail again—and win!

Limitations indeed we may have, and know them all too well—but no intrepid man would ever acknowledge them, excepting to himself. Perhaps even then, as life unfolds, some day he might discover further ranges of vision through his soul-seeking eye, able to lead him beyond anything he had yet dreamed about.

So that after all, why place any limits. Are not all limits in the hands of Someone far wiser than any of us?

"Our attention has been called to recent newspaper articles to the effect that there is to be a new model Ford car on the market August 15, with a change in design and ventilating wind shield and one man top. As we do not contemplate any such changes there is no foundation to the rumor circulated, in this connection we have no hesitancy in making a denial of the report."

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTY AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills. These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

WHERE WE STAND AMONG THE NATIONS OF THE WORLD.

Our incomparable Congressman, Hon. S. D. Fess, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee, has a lengthy leading article in the "National Republican" newspaper of August 6th, entitled "Our Country in 1921" which tells in glowing terms the story of the history of our great country. We treat our readers to a single paragraph of this wonderful article in which Dr. Fess seems to epitomize the resources and advantages of life in our blessed country, as follows:

In domain we comprehend the most important area of a continent.

In population we have the largest English-speaking population, twice over, of any portion of earth.

In institutions—educational, religious and governmental—we stand first in the expenditure of public funds and results accomplished.

In natural resources we produce 20 per cent of the world's gold, 25 per cent of the world's wheat, 40 per cent of the world's iron and steel, 40 per cent of the world's lead, 40 per cent of the world's silver, 50 per cent of the world's zinc, 52 per cent of the world's coal, 60 per cent of the world's copper, 60 per cent of the world's cotton, 70 per cent of the world's oil, 75 per cent of the world's corn. We operate 40 per cent of the world's railroads, refine 80 per cent of the world's copper and manufacture 85 per cent of the world's automobiles.

In basic elements of national wealth we have:

(1) Agriculture, our first industry, quite enough to feed and clothe the world.

(2) Transportation, the world's best and until recently cheapest system, greatly crippled by the war, but rapidly reaching a basis of efficiency.

(3) Manufacturing capacity unlimited save by the interruptions and disturbances of an over-expansion and consequent high production cost due to the war.

(4) A fiscal system that challenges the admiration of the world, demanding only a safe administration of our banking resources which are greater than all the banking resources of the world outside.

(5) An ability in organization that leads the business world.

(6) The type of skilled labor which exercises a degree of intelligent initiative which enables industry to pay the highest wage and insure a higher standard of living than in any part of the world.

NEED OF OPTIMISM.

The "moral atmosphere" that exists in Washington and in these United States during the sessions of the Disarmament Conference may have a profound effect on the trend of the discussions. It will influence the actual results of the meeting.

If the Nation is pessimistic and the voices of the Prophets of Evil are loud in the land, the reaction on the conference will be sure and hurtful. Without optimism and good-will, hope and good faith, the conference may find itself lost in morasses of suspicion and mazes of fear pride and prejudice.

The Administration that has staked a great part of its prestige on the success of the Disarmament Conference is beginning to take note of these intangible factors. In discussing the coming meetings in Washington, Judson C. Welliver of the personal staff of President Harding says:

Much depends upon the moral atmosphere in which the conference takes place. As its host, Washington, this democratic capital of the most republican democracy on earth, is vouchsafed a duty and an inspiring opportunity. I submit to the people of Washington that the chance is theirs to see that the conference of peoples and on peoples' issues carries on its deliberations in an atmosphere that will generate not retrogressiveness, but progressiveness.

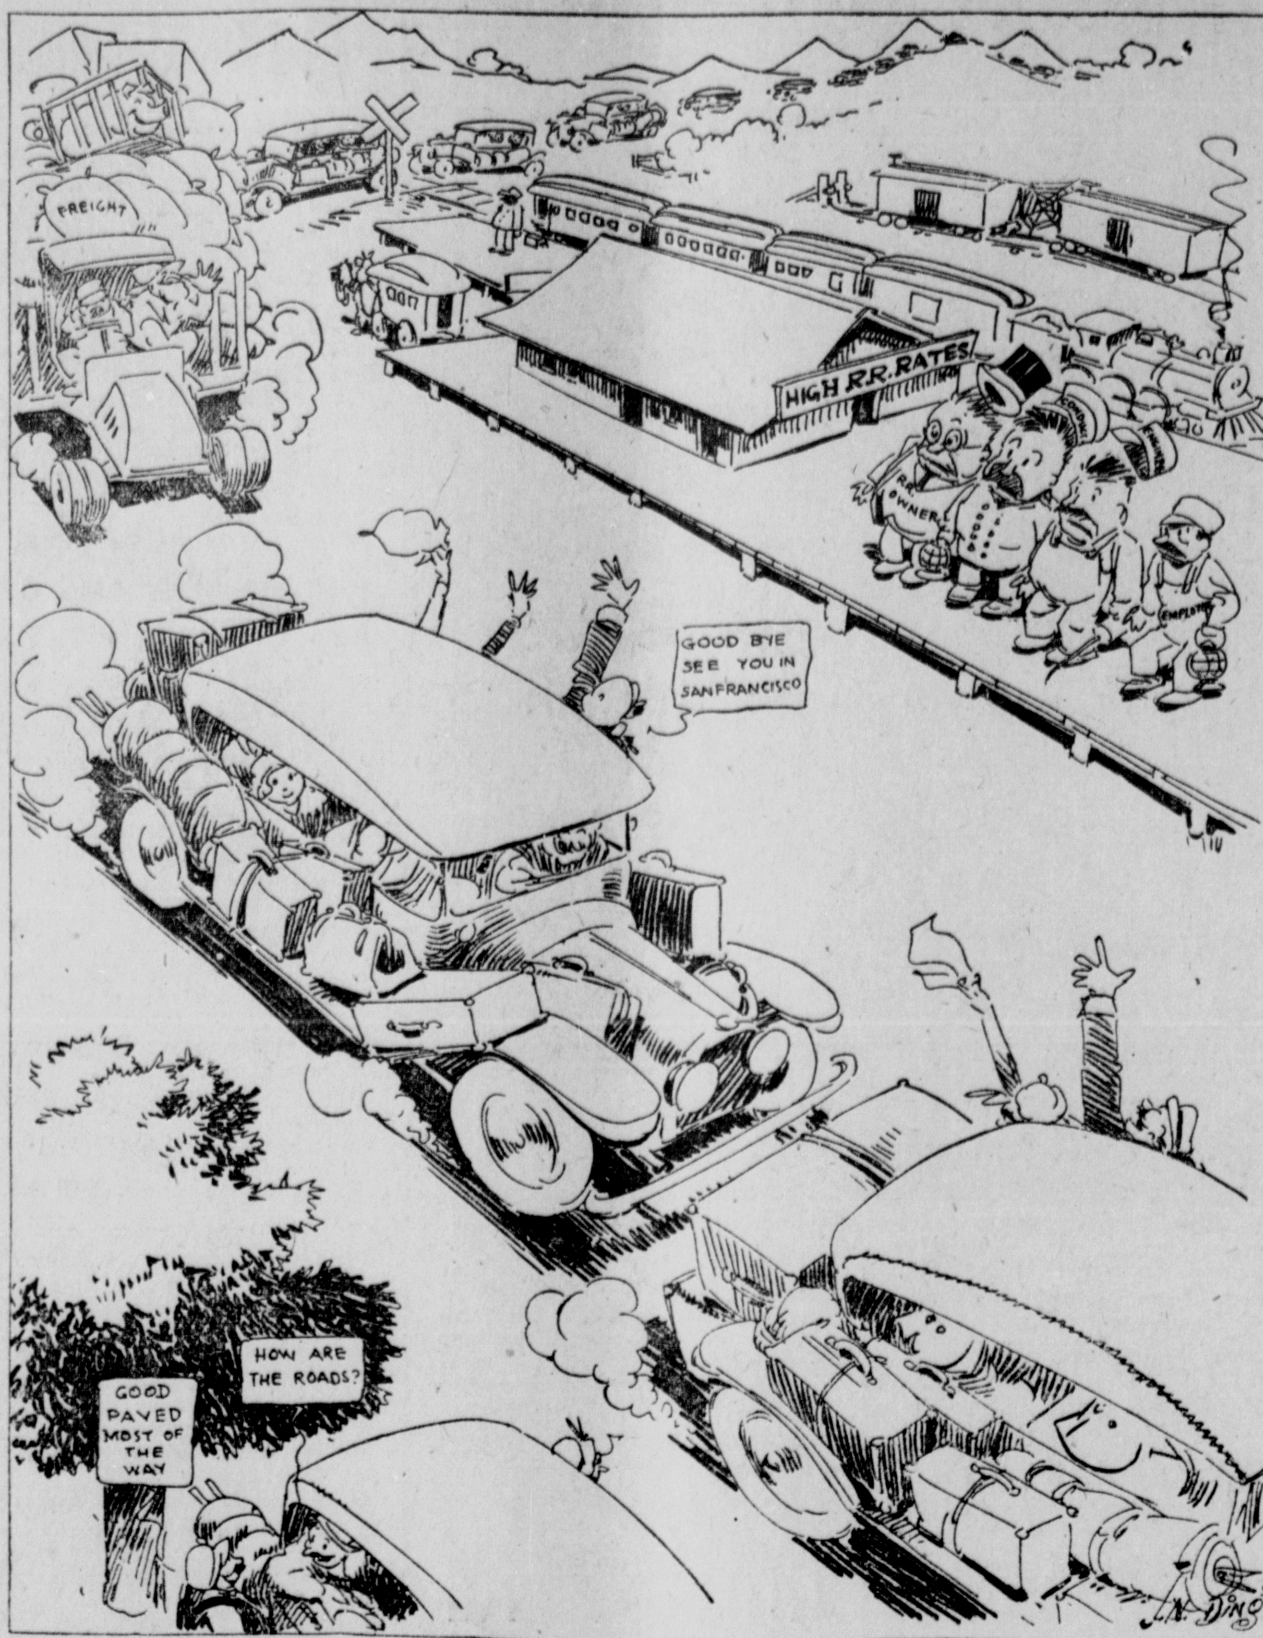

The trend of public opinion in the United States favors disarmament and is optimistic about the future. This must be brought to bear upon Washington in unmistakable ways. Now is the time when friends of disarmament should have no thought of resting and waiting for results. They can do much toward creating that "moral atmosphere," that spiritual environment and that needed optimism in Washington.

THE SMOKER.

While yet I may I'm smoking rafts of Old Kentucky's famous weed; some day I know that Dr Crafts will bust my pipe—a tyrant's deed; he's launching now his bitter shafts against the solace old boys need. I hate to see a little lad, who should be learning things at school, pick up the briar of his dad, and ply with zest that poisoned tool; some day he'll know the habit's bad, and he who learns it is a fool. The smoker has a cabbage heart and up his nerves strange tremors climb; and divers maladies impart the knowledge that a smoke's a crime; and in the undertaker's cart the smoker rides before his time. So I implore our boys and girls to leave the noxious weed alone, though kings and dukes and belted earls may boost tobacco round a throne; where'er the smoke ascends and curls, the health's perfection is unknown. And so with Old Doc Crafts I stand, thus far, no farther will I go; for there are old gents in the land who've smoked for forty years or so; if they must see their briars canned, this life becomes a stretch of woe. So let them, while they draw their breath, smoke on, though smoking may be wrong; nor, with the front of Dame Macbeth, denounce their course in language strong; oh, let them smoke themselves to death, for they'll be dead so long, so long!

TICKNOR GIVES IT FULL CREDIT

Magadore Citizen, at Age of 76, Declares Tanlac Is Without An Equal

(Although H. A. Ticknor, retired farmer living in R. F. D. No. 10, Magadore, Ohio, is now past seventy six years of age he is in perfect health and does not hesitate to give Tanlac credit for his present good health. Mr. Ticknor also owns considerable property in Akron and is widely known and respected. His statement will be of interest throughout the State.

"I had been failing pretty much here of late," said Mr. Ticknor, "and was generally run down. My appetite went back on me and I couldn't relish the little I managed to eat. My nerves were all on edge and I seemed to stay unusually restless all the time. I slept poorly and felt weak and tired out from morning till night.

"Reading and hearing so much about Tanlac I took a notion to see if it would suit my case. I have taken three bottles now and can truthfully say it beats anything I ever saw in my life. My appetite has come back and I enjoy three good hearty meals every day now. My nerves have steadied down and I sleep fine and have been built up so I seem to have new life and strength about me. Tanlac certainly has proved its worth in my case and I gladly give it my hearty endorsement."

"Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and by leading druggists everywhere."

A FEW SUGGESTIONS

Recently I played with an old friend of mine. It was the first time I had seen him play since the golf season closed last year and I was curious to learn how his game was coming on. He had asked me to criticize it freely, for he has been playing only a couple of years. George, although he has fallen into a few bad habits, really is a very good player for the time he has been at the game. He makes some very brilliant shots but they do not come off as often as he expects them. We are all subject to such disappointments, but of course the beginner is less likely to control his shots so that he can bring them off eight times out of ten.

As I watched my friend playing and listened to his questions the thought occurred to me that many of my readers have encountered the same difficulties in their playing. Of course, I cannot meet you all and give personal advice, but I can offer certain hints and rules whose timeliness was suggested by my friend.

Stand Flat-Footed

A fault one is very likely to fall into is bending too far over the ball. This is wrong, for the amount of bend to the body should be governed by the line of the club. The first thing in the address of the ball is to get the right angle with the imaginary line of play; then hold the club loosely in one hand with neither toe nor heel off the ground. The hands must not be too low down, for in that position it is impossible to get the proper twist at the waist which is so important.

A common fault among a large number of golfers is a wide open stance on the full shots. With this stance they aim to the left, catching the ball on the upstroke, and allowing for the slice that never comes off when most expected. This comes from allowing the hands to go out too much in the follow-through, for one works himself into that position because he cannot get his club head around fast enough from the proper position. It must be remembered that the hands should be like a center when club head meets ball. The club head should go through the ball and describe an arc with the hands as a center, and not be kept on the same plane with the club.

Do Not "Stab" Ball

This leads me to another fault, that of "quitting on the shot." This is a form of the stab shot; it is a big mistake, for the stroke must always be completed. It is not enough merely to have hit the ball properly, for there are two halves to the stroke and any lack of equality is a defect.

Another thing, the knuckles of the right hand must point to the sky on the finish; they must not be under.

Questions and Answers

Question—There is a wide difference in opinion on the course where I play as to where a club should be gripped. We would all like to have your opinion on it.

Answer—Yours is one of the most frequently asked questions in golf. Personally, and as a result of long study, I make this a matter of balance and comfort in "feel." My wooden clubs I grip about the middle of the leather, while I grip my steel, midiron and jigger near the top. In playing my masher I grip it top, middle or bottom, depending on the distance to be made—top for full shots, middle for half shots and bottom for quarter shots.

"Listen!" commanded the arch-conspirator. "There is one point of the utmost importance in carrying out this crime: It must be done some place where there is not the slightest danger of interference." "Yes," hissed the gang. "We gotta be sure there's no chance of the cops getting a line on the murder," continued the chief plotter. "Yes," hissed the gang. "I've got it!" snapped the leader. "The very place. A nice, safe spot where we can murder this guy and not get a peep out of a soul."

"Where?" demanded the gang. "Broadway and Forty-second street," was the answer. A temperance lecturer displayed to his audience two geraniums. The first had been watered in the usual way. The other had been dosed with alcohol and its foliage was shriveled and sparse, its stem twisted and its vitality decayed. "Now, ladies and gentlemen," cried the lecturer, "what can you say to a demonstration like that?"

"It's all right, and if I were a geranium," said a shabby man at the back of the hall, "I'd stick to water; but, you see, I'm not a geranium."

"Wud yer luk at thot!" exclaimed Mrs. Brady, with indignation, in passing a neighbor's house and reading the sign, "Washing and Ironing Done."

"Shure, she ain't wan bit better than Oi am. Oi've got me washin' and ironin' done, too, but yez don't see me hangin' out no signs braggin' about ut."

Little Bessie, aged five, after calling her mother several times during the night and receiving no reply, said, "Mother, are you really asleep or are you just p'tending you're a telephone girl?"

The precocious infant had just returned from his first day at school, registering intense ennui. The anxious family gathered around. "Donald," asked his mother, "what did you learn today?" "Nothing."

"What, nothing at all?" "Nope; there was a woman there who wanted to know how to spell cat, so I told her. That's all."

Here is another story which the collector of true dog yarns might like to add to his list. A gentleman had a dog whose eyes were remarkably different in size. Whenever a stranger dined at the house the dog played a trick on him. He would first get fed at one side of the table to his other side, and pretend to be another dog!

Two dentists were talking "shop." One remarked: "My treatment is so painless that it often happens that my patients fall asleep while I am attending to their teeth."

The other dentist gave a deprecating shrug of his shoulders. "Pooh, pooh, my dear man! That is nothing!" he cried. "You should see my place with all the latest improvements. Why, my patients nearly always ask me to send a message to fetch a photographer so that they can be photographed with the expression of gladness which my dental treatment alone can give them."

DINNERSTORIES

"I know I'm old, but I'm crazy about you," stated Mr. Moneybags. "When I go I'll leave all my fortune to you if you'll have me." "Have you any bad habits?" asked Miss Goldilocks, thoughtfully. "Only that I walk in my sleep, if you could call that a bad habit."

"You dear old thing. Of course I'll marry you. And we'll have our honeymoon on the top floor of some tall hotel, won't we?"

"See here," said the manager of an automobile sales agency. "What did you mean by wasting your time showing that rough-looking fellow a $6,000 car? A flivver would be about his size."

"I thought so, too, at first," replied the smart salesman, "but I noticed a great deal of grime under his fingernails and in his eyebrows and hair. I immediately sized him up as a wage-earner and not a salaried man."

"Well?"

"He bought the car."

"Cancel my order at once," came the telegram to the factory. The owner perpetrated the only new joke in the millennium. His telegram in reply read: "Your order cannot be cancelled at once. You must take your turn."

It is Prof. Scarborough's third trip on the Carmania, having crossed twice on the vessel in 1911. Later the ship was converted into an army cruiser during the war, and after the great conflict re-fitted as a luxurious passenger boat.

Prof. Scarborough will go directly to Scotland, on the boat's arrival at Liverpool, and after a week there will go to Cambridge and to London, later going to France for a visit before returning home.

AUTO-INTOXICATION

Would you kindly explain what kind of sickness Auto-intoxication is, and how can a person know if this is the sickness or disease that is troubling him?

Answer—It is the poisoning of the bodily tissues through the absorption of, and circulation in the blood, of the toxic (poisonous) products of the putrefaction in the intestines. This putrefaction comes chiefly from the excess of protein elements or the imperfect digestion of those elements in the food. The proteins are mainly meat, fish, oysters, eggs and the like. The auto-intoxemia sufferer should not forego entirely such protein foods; but he should eat them in great moderation.

The torpid or slow liver (hepatic insufficiency) is a considerable factor in the development of the auto-intoxemia; such a liver fails to secrete enough bile, so that intestinal fermentation and putrefaction result. The toxins thus formed and thus absorbed, occasion impaired digestion, constipation, the muddy complexion, the frequent headache, occasional dizziness, mental dullness, depression, muscular fatigue, general abdominal distress; more indirectly lumbago, rheumatism, heart palpitation, nerves, eczema, neuralgia and disorders of special organs. If the condition continues unattended to, anemia (poor-bloodedness), neurasthenia, Bright's disease, or hardening of the arteries has to be feared.

A fair test of intestinal toxemia is the presence of indican in the urine; the family doctor should make this test. A stamped and self-addressed envelope will bring you further particulars.

STRAIGHTFORWARD

A COLLEGE where the pride of the Faculty is never in evidence; where the students' best friends are the teachers; where ambition is created, hope revived and moral principles established. That characterizes CEDARVILLE COLLEGE. "TREAT EVERYONE ALIKE—BE PARTIAL TO NONE" is the spirit pervading the Faculty of this Institution of learning.

WHATEVER transpires between students and Faculty is a matter between them—and them alone. If a student is able to pay—very well; if not—very well. The public knows nothing about it, the newspapers never know about it, and often intimate friends never know about it. Giving a young man or woman a new lease on life, included also the shielding of financial circumstances.

THE POOREST STUDENT gets as much consideration as the richest student. A student from the most humble walk of life, has the same opportunities to receive the Cedarville College service as a student from the aristocracy. "EVERY BOY AND GIRL, REGARDLESS OF RACE, CREED, OR SOCIAL STANDING IS WORTH THE CLOSEST ATTENTION WE CAN GIVE"—is the sentiment pervading Cedarville College.

THAT Cedarville College is deserving, no one can question; that its needs are legitimate, none can doubt; that it is doing a splendid work with the means available, must be admitted; that its possibilities are wonderful, is evident; that its service and development are essential to the present and future welfare of our people, must be clear to every thinking person.

CEDARVILLE COLLEGE is charged by the Fathers and Mothers of this community with the responsibility of furnishing Association College Service to their sons and daughters. To fulfil this obligation, it must do at least three things:

1. IMPROVE ITS PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT TO THE VALUE OF $100,000.
2. SECURE A TOTAL OF 10,000 VOLUMES FOR ITS LIBRARY.
3. INCREASE ITS ENDOWMENT TO $200,000.

THE service of Cedarville College has been recognized for more than 25 years as the best obtainable under existing conditions. Its system has been built, its Faculty has been trained, and improvements and economies have been introduced—all with the purpose of enabling it to furnish EFFICIENT SERVICE. It has rendered the best service possible for an unstandardized college to render.

NOW, however, the demands are for a standardized Association College service. Cedarville College is anxious to meet these demands but its revenues are not equal to them. WHY? Because it has never been a money making Institution and has not, therefore accumulated any surplus funds.

PUBLIC necessity and public safety require modern College buildings and up-to-date equipment. The thinking business man and thoughtful worker realize this fact. Association College Service—which means THE BEST OBTAINABLE—depends largely upon these improvements. Any service below this standard stifles development, and every person in the community suffers as a consequence.

CEDARVILLE COLLEGE IS FUNDAMENTALLY AND DISTINCTIVELY A CHRISTIAN INSTITUTION. It is a task common to all to help save it and thus enable it to serve not only, AS WELL in the future as in the past, BUT IN A FAR MORE EFFICIENT WAY. The Trustees of the Institution have faith in the people to aid in making the College of greater service, and they believe that the people desire to see the present campaign for $200,000 brought to a successful termination.

REMEMBER

YOU HAVE FIVE LONG YEARS IN WHICH TO PAY YOUR PLEDGE. YOU MAY PAY IT ANNUALLY, SEMI-ANNUALLY, QUARTERLY, OR ANY OTHER WAY TO SUIT YOUR CONVENIENCE. ENLIST UNDER THE BANNER.

"CEDARVILLE COLLEGE WILL BE BIG ENOUGH—IF YOUR HEART IS."

LIQUOR TRAFFICKERS ARRESTED IN XENIA GIVEN STIFF FINE

Frank Davis, 46, of Dayton, and M. S. Childer, 70, giving his home as Gallia county, were fined $500 and costs each by Judge E. D. Smith in Police Court, Monday morning, on charges of transporting liquor illegally, following their arrest Saturday night, by Patrolmen Charles Simms and Fred Jones.

The arrest followed a tip received by Patrolman Simms that the men were coming here in a machine from Dayton, and would stop in the alley next to the Western Ohio Creamery on South Columbus street. Simms called Patrolman Jones to go with him and made the arrest as Davis and Childer were unloading two five gallon jugs of corn whiskey from the machine. The liquor was confiscated and taken to Police Headquarters with the men.

Childer is the father-in-law of Davis, and although his home is in Gallia county he has been staying in Dayton recently. According to the story told Chief of Police M. E. Graham, they came here to deliver the corn whiskey to Tom Sward, of Dayton, arrested by Sheriff Funderburg some time ago on a similar charge. When one of the jugs had been unloaded in the alley, Patrolmen Simms and Jones made the arrests. The alleged traffickers did not have time to use a heavy hammer which they carried to smash the jugs in case of impending arrest.

Both men entered pleas of guilty before Judge Smith Monday morning, and Childer paid his fine with a certificate on the Oak Hill Bank, of Jackson county. Police held him to learn if the funds were available. Davis' wife and children came here, Monday, to make arrangements to pay the fine and costs.

HELLER APPOINTED AS INSTRUCTOR OF MILITARY AT HOME

Lieutenant Edgar F. Heller, ex-pupil of the O. S. & S. O. Home and world war veteran was appointed military instructor of the Commanding Battalion of the O. S. & S. O. Home at the regular monthly board meeting of that institution held Saturday.

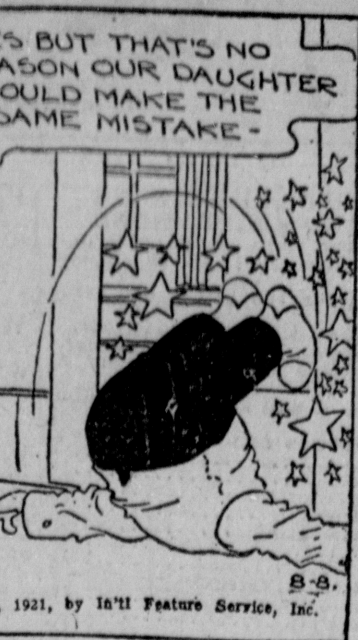

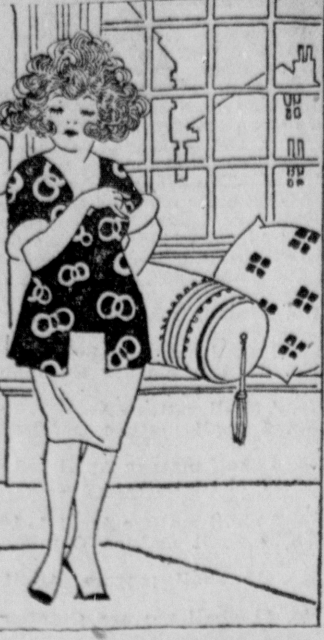

Lieutenant Heller will fill the position vacated by Major Palumbo, former instructor at the institution, who took the place held by Major William Campbell, who also resigned. Lieut. Heller received his military instruction while a pupil at the home, and at the Kemper Military School, at Booneville, Mo. He served in the regular army in the Philippines, and saw action at the front during the World War. He has been stationed at the Home since August, awaiting his appointment at the regular meeting of the Home Board.

Heller received his commission as lieutenant while serving in the Philippines and held it during the World War.

Another matter that came before the home board on Saturday was the placing of screens in the doors and windows of the cottages. This is the first time such action was taken, and received the sanction of the board members.

Two hundred and twenty-five pupils are now at the institution, including those who have returned from their vacation, and those who remained at the home during the summer months. Four hundred pupils are expected to return from their annual vacation before August 26. Three pupils, two boys and two girls were discharged from the Home at Board meeting on Saturday.

DAVIS CUP TEAM MUST BE NAMED BEFORE WEEK END

New York, August 8.—America's Davis cup team will be selected this week.

The players who will defend the world's most famous tennis trophy against the foreign team which comes out victorious in the cup ties must be named by next Friday.

Recent results on eastern tennis courts have somewhat complicated the task of the nominating committee. The defeat of both Tilden and Williams by young Vincent Richards at Providence caused the tennis solons to sit up and take notice. At Newport Williams came back, defeating Richards handily only to be beaten in turn by Watson Washburn, who capped his performance by adding the scalp of William M. Johnston to his string.

Four players are to be selected to defend the cup. If there were five instead the team selection would be much easier, as it would no doubt consist of Tilden, Johnson, Richards, Williams and Washburn. The sole difficulty then, appears to rest with the elimination of one man and in this respect the defeat of Richards by Williams at Newport may count against the young star because of Williams' ability to come back and his greater experience.

Efficient Housekeeping

What Kind of a Rug Shall I Buy?

Several of my readers have asked me to write an article on rugs. Rugs are classified according to weave, as ingrain, pile and tufted.

Ingrain rugs are woven like cloth, with a warp and woof and they may be used with either side up. These are inexpensive give splendid service in bedrooms, but most house-wives prefer a pile or tufted rug for living room and dining room.

The Pile weave includes both Brussels and Wilton rugs. A Brussels has only one usable side. It is woven with a lock stitch in which one thread is woven over the next, the woolen thread which constitutes the pile being looped in the warp, and held in these loops by steel wires; when the rug is almost completed, these wires are drawn out and the loop thus left make the pile surface. There are two grades of Brussels—"body Brussels" and "tapestry Brussels"; the former is the better choice, as the latter has a good deal of sizing in it and must, therefore, be drycleaned rather than steam cleaned.

A Wilton rug is simply a cut Brussels. That is, the pile (the looped surface) is cut, thus giving a velvet-like surface. Brussels and Wilton rugs are a fine choice for either dining room or living room.

The tufted weave includes Axminster, Chenille and Oriental rugs. An Axminster is more reasonable than a Wilton rug but less serviceable because the tufts loosen easily. They are more trouble to clean, as they shed much lint. But they do fill a very real need in the homes of people who cannot afford a Brussels or a Wilton rug; they are equally as effective on the floor and enable many a financially limited young couple to obtain decorative harmony at low cost.

Chenille rugs are a little beyond the financial reach of most of us. They are the most expensive of our domestic, or of European, rugs. They are like Wilton in weave and like Axminster in appearance. Many persons use them in place of Oriental rugs, although of course they are not a good substitute from a standpoint of art or durability. The cost of a Chenille rug depends upon its depth of pile and the richness of its coloring. Cotton Chenilles are frequently seen on bath room floors; these are inexpensive and are reversible and washable.

Oriental rugs are perhaps the one thing that we all like to own! They are the most expensive rugs in the world. They are hand-tufted and are made by stretching the warp thread in a frame and then looping in short or long threads of wool filling; before finishing the rug, this filling is sheared down so as to make an even surface to the rug. A genuine Persian rug is never even in shape. For no Persian will make a perfectly symmetrical rug because he says that "nothing is perfect but Allah."

Before finishing this article, I must mention the splendid new linoleum rugs. These inexpensive and easily cleaned rugs are a blessing to the housekeeper, and no little bride should overlook them when planning the floor coverings of her rooms and porch.

Next Monday I shall publish an article on the choice of portieres. I believe there are many housekeepers who might find such a chat helpful.

Tomorrow—Some Cooling Fruit Drinks.

SHUMAKER SELLS HOME; LEAVES CITY

J. Perry Shumaker, has sold his house on North Galloway street to Foster Clemmer.

The deal was completed Monday by the real estate firm of Long and Marshall. In selling the property Mr. Shumaker, who is a Division Engineer for the State Highway Department, with headquarters in Ottawa announced that he is moving his family to Lima, nearer his work.

Mr. Clemmer, the new owner, will get possession of the property September 1, and expects to make his home there.

THE NEW GENERATION

BY JANE PHELPS

Joan Has Her Hair Bobbed.

Joan had beautiful hair. It was thick and heavy, like spun gold. Margaret had been inordinately proud of the two heavy braids that hung below the child's waist and had bestowed great care upon it.

One day Joan had gone to play tennis with one of her young friends. It was an oppressively warm day and Margaret had worried a little for fear the heat would affect her.

Later than usual Joan came in. Around her face was a thick halo of soft yellow curls gleaming gold above her big blue eyes, and curling upward from her white neck in bewitching fashion. Margaret was startled, hurt. She longed to cry and—did nothing.

"You don't mind, do you, Mumsie? I was so hot. And all the girls are being bobbed."

She looked so like a tiny child, nearer 8 than 12, with her big blue eyes staring out from under that mass of curls, so like the baby she had been only a few short years before, that Margaret felt the tears starting. But it would sadden Joan if she cried. So she winked the tears back, and admired the soft curls, running her hand through them caressingly.

"I brought these back as a present for you Mumsie." Joan laid the two shining braids in Margaret's lap. If the mother had held back her tears when with Joan, she made no effort to do so when she laid the two golden braids tenderly away. It was months before she ceased to regret she was no longer needed to brush and labor of love.

It was typical that Joan had not consulted her mother as to cutting her hair. Really it was not her mother's business. It was her hair. She was the one to decide whether she wanted it long or short.

There was no disrespect for her mother in this attitude of Joan's. She was only following out her mother's teachings. She was a human being, independent, actionary. She must carve out her own life, follow any bent she wished in her actions.

Joan had a nice sense of honor inculcated by her mother's conversation and example. She was honest and plain spoken at all times. She was kind and generous to inferiors, even though she might be insolent to her equals. She had many of the virtues girls in her position are supposed to have, also many of the faults. That the virtues outlasted and outnumbered the faults was due perhaps to her blood-clean ancestry.

Naturally at her age, Joan did not reason out what she did or did not do along the lines she followed. Her actions were almost, if not entirely voluntary. She wanted to do something—she did it!

Margaret often smiled as she sat thinking of Joan after the child had retired. She could count on the fingers of her hands the times when Joan had really needed reproof. Always followed the thought:

and braid Joan's hair. It had been like all she did for the child, a real labor of love.

"How wise I have been to not interfere." Then she would think of her own girlhood, how she had been obliged to fight for the simplest, the most elemental rights. She had not been supposed to believe anything save what her parents told her, what they believed. If they said a thing was wrong, she was expected immediately to believe it wrong, and never to figure anything out for herself as Joan did. If they told her she must not do this or that, she was not supposed to question why. She was, in fact, to have no mind, no will, of her own.

Margaret had longed to go to college, to think along other than cut-and-dried lines. But her mother believed a governess was better for a girl—that it kept her from becoming "tainted." Now Margaret smiled when she recalled that expression her mother had used "tainted." She remembered how she had rebelled that day in the privacy of her own room, she had likened herself to a fish or other food that was so stale it became tainted.

It had been such incidents as these, still fresh in her memory when she had been left alone with Joan, that had determined her upon the course she was pursuing with the child.

Her child, her little Joan should never live the repressed life she had lived—she had arrived at this conclusion after much conscientious consideration, much reading upon the subject of allowing children self-expression.

Surest thing you know!

THEY DO IT!
We spent years experimenting with different blends of tobaccos to obtain

- a new flavor
- a more pleasing aroma
- and to obtain what is more important still—the one thing that smokers have always wished a cigarette would do—

"SATISFY!"

And Chesterfields do "satisfy."

For in Chesterfields the tobaccos—Turkish, and Burley and other choice home-grown varieties—are blended differently—and better—to give you and all smokers that greater measure of cigarette enjoyment.

They Satisfy
—and the blend can't be copied.
